

AN IDLE MAN

If you want to know who is a busy man these days, just try to put your finger on Chairman Harry Paige and hold him for one solid minute, for it's Paige this or Paige that. "Phone, Harry. P. P. A. Committee wants to see you." Geo. Proctor phones: "Is Paige in? Have him call me soon as he comes in." "Harry, Mrs. Smith wants to know if she can enter her baby in the Baby Show." "Long Distance wants H. E. Paige on the line." "Where do you want the tents to set, Mr. Paige?" "Where do we get votes for the Queen?" "Right here! How many?" and "The firemen want to know where they can sell hot dogs?" and Henry Ford wants to rent a space for one of his Tin Lizzies. Then there is that great big, wonderful chorus about to make its debut, and Paige must see to it that there is a competent force of men employed to construct a suitable stage that shall be strong enough to hold those seventy-five singers and piano also, and still large enough for the Queen to sit with dignity on her throne, together with her ladies in waiting. "Oh Paige, Bartlett is calling you. He wants you at his office at once." "Is this Mr. Paige. I want to rent a concession to sell baby carriages." "Alright; apply to Harry Reeve. He's the agent for baby carriages." "Say, Paige, can you turn our booth around so the wind won't blow in our faces?" "Not if you stay in Torrance." "Can we get gas to cook with in our booth?" "There'll be plenty of gas on the Midway." "Mr. Paige, do we have to pay full price for our booth?" "You betcher life. We need the money." "Mr. Paige, I want a concession to sell Hendon shirts and Walk Over shoes." "Yes, alright. See Sam Rappaport. He's the guy you want to talk to." "Los Angeles calling H. E. Paige." "Alright, Fitzgerald. You can have a space. It's the last one, too!" From the Woman's Club: "Where is our booth?" "Mr. Paige, have you your light."

FIESTA BOOSTERS

Torrance has enjoyed a great success at her Third Annual Fiesta, but she has been supported from outside cities to a degree that shows the affection other towns have for her. Lomita, especially, has seen to it that thousands of its residents visited the Fiesta, and Messrs. Pollock, Boyes and Brumpton, who are in charge of the Lomita Booth of fruits and vegetables, have strengthened the co-operative spirit between the two towns, and we anticipate great results henceforth and for the Fourth Annual Fiesta.

"ing taken care of?" "Yes, you bet it's taken care of. Paxman is on the job."

"Yes, the American Legion will have plenty of confetti—a carload."

"Can I get a stall to sell left-handed monkey wrenches and white ampblack?" and about 999999999 other questions, some of which are just about as foolish as this last one, but Paige never gets ruffled, not even when he goes up to the grounds and finds four carpenter-sitting on the ground for lack of lumber to do with, but after a telephone to Jones a Consolidated Lumber Co. driver is arrested for speeding with that load of lumber on the way to the Fiesta grounds. When Anderson learns the circumstances, said driver is released until caught speeding after the Fiesta is over with. "I shouldn't think Harry Paige would know whether he's running a grocery store or a circus."

Well, it's some circus he can tell you, and if any of you clerks or housewives think you're busy, just follow Chairman Paige around for a couple of hours, for he is busy endeavoring to make this Fiesta a credit to the committee of which he is chairman, and a credit to our City of Torrance as well.

Mr. and Mrs. K. Von Hagen, with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Watson, attended a Spanish War Veterans' reception in Long Beach last Saturday evening in honor of the district president.

HONOR QUEEN

Just after the words had been spoken that made Miss Erma Morford Queen of the Torrance Fiesta by Mayor Proctor all the automobile horns began to blow and 400 pounds of steam had been tanked up at the Union Tool-Co. by Bill Klussman for the big whistle, which nearly drowned the voices of the spellers. And then the Carnival spirit was on full blast.

GIVING CREDIT

One of the most striking features in the parade was the private car of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gourdiere, which they had taken a great deal of pains in fixing up for the parade. On the rear of the car in scalloped letters was "Torrance Post Office." Immediately below hung the photograph of President Harding in a very striking frame. As the car passed it was constantly cheered by the throngs on the sidewalk.
